

Carlos Robalo Cordeiro is a Full Professor of Pulmonology at Coimbra Medical School and Head of the Department of Pulmonology at Coimbra University Hospital in Portugal.

He is Coordinator of the Center of Pulmonology Research Unit from the Ministry of Science and Technology, and Coordinator of the research strategic area of Environment, Genetics and Oncobiology at Coimbra Medical School. He is also member of the Coimbra University General Council.

Carlos Robalo is Past President of the Portuguese Society of Pulmonology, President of the Scientific Council of the Portuguese Lung Foundation and Academic holder of the Portuguese Academy of Medicine. He is Secretary General of the European Respiratory Society (ERS) and a past member of WASOG Executive Committee.

His main field of interest is Interstitial Lung Disease, having published several papers in high impact factor journals and being peer reviewer and Board member of several international journals.