

Marjolein Drent is professor of interstitial lung diseases (ILD) at the department of Pharmacology and Toxicology of the Faculty of Health, Medicine and Life Sciences, Maastricht University, Maastricht, and pulmonologist at the ILD Center of Excellence St. Antonius Hospital, Nieuwegein, The Netherlands. She is past president of WASOG (World Association of Sarcoidosis and other Granulomatous diseases; www.wasog.org). She is co-editor and guest editor of several international journals. She is the editor of ild care today. She is a reviewer of many international journals. She has (co-) authored over 300 papers and book chapters. Furthermore, she is concerned with several educational assignments, organisation of postgraduate courses and congresses, guideline development, as well as clinical trials. She is the co-editor of several ILD related e-learning modules. She is the founder and chair of the ild care foundation (www.ildcare.nl). She is an honorary member of the Dutch Sarcoidosis Society and cofounder and member of the advisory board of the Dutch Pulmonary Fibrosis Society. In November 2012 she was nominated as 'World Sarcoidosis Person of the Year Award' selected by patients of the Irish Sarcoidosis Support Network (ISarc). Since 2015 she is chair of the Foundation for Sarcoidosis Research (www.stopsarcoidosis.org) Scientific Advisory Board.